

ARDSLEY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Our New Logo

An enduring image of Ardsley was the fountain in what was known as “the Square” (now known as Addyman Square for Frank Addyman who served as Ardsley’s Mayor from 1931-1934). The fountain was actually a trough of water for passing horses.

The new Ardsley Historical Society logo embeds this iconic image as follows:

SOCIETY